Free Sodas Quiet Mob At Skating Palace

As campers entered the Skating Palace this afternoon, intent on spending as much time on wheels as possible, a situation of some confusion developed. Line Control Officer Dion G. worked desperately to maintain order and increase patience while campers scrambled to find blades or skates in their size. Luckily, no altercations broke out, and everyone eventually found a suitable pair.

Equipped at last with skates on their feet and smiles on their faces, the skaters were soon having a fine time. The fun, classical music got them really motivated. Skaters could be found dancing (well, sort of, anyway) and swaying to the music.

Those feeling distressed and bothered by the short wait for skates soon cooled down after someone wisely provided free sodas for all.

Nick: "What kind of monkey can fly?"

Morgan: "A hot-air baboon."

Spidey Sr.??

Spiderman Wannabe Hypnotizes Counselors

Our hero successfully at work on Counselor Kara Heatwole

Who knew Spiderman saved the day with a back rub? Here at Choral Camp the only villains are the aching necks and backs of exhausted counselors. So Nick Grasset, a.k.a. Spidey Jr., was found massaging the backs of some of the camp staff during breakfast on Tuesday morning.

But has Spidey gone too far? It appears as though his efforts have lulled these counselors into a state of relaxation. He may even be trying to get Phyllis Swartz's favor so his table can go first into the line for the next meal!

How To Play a Recorder In 4 Easy Steps

1. Hold recorder to chest and stretch mouth wide

2. Rest mouthpiece on left side of open mouth

3. Keep recorder on left side, close lips, blow softly

4. Center recorder, and follow the notes!

Ethan: "What was the name of the detested Nazi wood carver?"

Laura: "Adolph Hitler!"

Caught in Passing

"I've got that squeaky sound coming from mine, and I can't get rid of it."

—Philip B in recorder class, while actually sounding just fine

"Hey! It says to blow softly."

—A needed reminder from one recorder player to another

"If I ate all the candy left for me, I'd need a nurse!"

—Inspector General Nurse Ruth Miller

"Please clean out my eyes, I can't hear."

—A very creamed camper on Tuesday

Campers Actually Learn About Music!

Although some campers would say getting "creamed" or playing air hockey is the highlight of the week, many others love all the music. One camper in the blue group came out of Kevin Yoder's music history class saying, "Learning about music history is my favorite part of Choral Camp." According to one furphy, (see above) an unnamed camper was even heard to mutter in her sleep, "...Renaissance, Baroque, Classical, Romantic..."

Culture teacher Lynette Showalter is considering charging admission to staff members who have been crashing her class in their spare moments. Choir attendance is standing room only, with not a chair to spare. And it's been reported to the Record that Practicum teacher Regina Yutzky-Wolfer has so inspired campers that many are wanting to "check out" the hand chimes so they can practice in their rooms!
