Sixth Slick Cream Scream a Fun Run

The Choral Camp Cream is always a camp highlight, and this week's event was not a disappointment. It was sometimes hard to tell the difference between smiles and grimaces, but lots of teeth were seen on faces otherwise covered with shaving cream.

At right, Camp Pastor and Choral Cream Booster Extraordinaire Conrad Showalter, certifies Counselor Jonathan Weber as winner of the cream slide. The Record modestly observes that the win was by several body lengths.

Camper Dreams Reveal Wide Range of Concerns

Although most campers surveyed early Tuesday claimed they could not recall any dreams from the night before, several were brave enough to remember and tell.

Animals figured prominently in two dreams. Laura Stoltzfus was chased by "a bunch of panthers" through a woods. Katrina Regier's dream about feeding fish to killer whales was so vivid that this morning she asked her roommates if her hands smelled like fish!

Jeniece Bender dreamed that she and her roommates were "really rich" superstars, singing on stage and shopping for expensive clothes. She confesses that after one of those roommates woke her up by crawling into her bed to get warm, "I tried to get back into the dream, but I couldn't."

The dream most likely to win favor at home was Lynae Byler's. She dreamed that while she was at choral camp, she had to go home from 5:30 to 7:00 each morning to do the dishes for her mom. The Record doubts that is a dream to which Lynae would try to return.

Alarming Alarm Alarms Campers in Beethoven Hall

In a bold move to solve the problem of late sleepers in the boys' dorm, counselors in Beethoven Hall ran yelling through the corridor at wake-up time Tuesday morning. Although it apparently worked very well as a wake-up tactic, campers did not seem to share the counselors' enthusiasm for the new approach.

A follow-up visit to one room at breakfast time revealed a camper not dressed for the day, and not doing anything to get dressed. When asked why he was not ready, he responded, "I would be, but I'm waiting for my roommate to get out of the closet so I can change."

Quotes of the Day

“Supper Time!”

—The Yellow, Orange, Red group in Music History class when Kevin Yoder asked them what the next era was called

“In a yellow house”

—young camper when a host asked him where he lived

“This is the most covered I’ve ever seen his head”

—Sherry Schrock, about her husband, P. R.'s head during the choral camp cream

“Do they serve Cappuccino there?”

—asked about the Choral Camp Café

Room Inspections Complicated by Bribery Attempts

Nurse Inspectors Gloria Kauffman and Ruth Miller report that several rooms have attempted to gain an advantage by leaving goodies or sweet notes for them. Readers will no doubt form their own opinion as to which attempt was likely to be most effective—the “glove balloon” pictured below, or the poem addressed to them which said:

Roses are red,
violets are blue;
none of the teachers
are as nice as you!
