SuperGames A Super Time

By mid-afternoon today, all choral campers who were able to walk could be found outside having a super time with SuperGames. Ten minutes were allowed for each of several stations. Groups of campers moved from station to station, playing human foosball, stacking "flapjacks" on heads (very wet flapjacks, we might add), milking "cows," racing pedal cars, running the inflatable obstacle course, sliding down inflatable slides, soaking each other with water . . . and finding lots of ways to have fun.

Although dark clouds threatened rain, and the wind was a little cold for soaking-wet campers, everyone seemed to enjoy the games. A three-year-old on campus summed up the feeling pretty well. After he caught a glimpse of the flags and inflatables, he said eagerly, "Let's run!"

Tooth Added to List of Body Parts Lost

Megan Beachy with the smile that tells all

On Wednesday, around 11:30, Miss Megan Beachy became the second choral camper (after the camper whose foot apparently got lost in the nurse's bucket) to lose a body part. When her tooth first became loose, she tried to pull it herself, but she ended up asking the nurse to help her.

Megan claims she was not scared about having her tooth pulled and was actually quite happy about it. (Of course she wasn't afraid! Who would ever be scared of a little pain and that blood that keeps seeping out of the hole in your gums after the tooth roots get ripped out?)

She really wanted to tell her mom about it, so Mom, if you are reading this, why not send her an email!

Did Natalie Bontrager just swallow a cod??

The campers are coming! The campers are coming!

Campers patiently requesting to have their table go to the food line next

What is Codswallop (KODZ'-WALL-UP)

“Probably getting hit with a cold baseball bat”

— Lem Yutzy, Counselor

“Some kind of cheese”

—Shawn Yoder, Camper

“When you hit someone with a fish”

—Chris Yoder, Counselor

“Sounds like a really big fish”

—Adrienne Maust, Camper

Correct Answer:

A British word for nonsense!

Q: How do you tell when you run out of invisible ink?

Quotes of the Day

“i think that you ant treating Me rite”

—Elwood Smith, Oct 2, 1897, in a letter complaining about someone keeping his dog, which Phyllis Swartz found in her basement (the letter, not the dog).

“You can never trust the press, even at Choral Camp”

—Phyllis’s response to the three girls featured yesterday when they complained they had not exactly said the boys were losers. She thought it was “a really good quote.”

“... Never too full for an ice cream bar”

—Justin Horst, leaning back in his chair with a satisfied sigh (and a very full belly?)

Bribery Announcement Confirms Suspicions

At lunch today, integrity was finally restored to the process of room inspections at Choral Camp. Chief Inspector General Nurse Beachy admitted that, since so many rooms were in such good order, bribes, especially of chocolate and flowers, help make the selection easier, and give some rooms “an advantage.”

Favorite bribes so far have included “Hi Nurse” laid out in Sourpatch Kids candy, a smiley face in Oreo cookies, and “Have a nice day” written with goldfish and pretzels. “Piles of candy” in some rooms were not impressive, because “we like artistic arrangement,” said Nurse Barr, the other Chief Inspector General.

The Record learned that one pitiful bribe attempt this morning was completely ineffective. A counselor from Delaware “got all puppy-eyed” and whined, “Would you not give us ‘Worst Room’ if we gave you some soda?”
