Cream of the Camp Contest

Campers, online readers, counselors, guests—we invite everyone to help us identify the best application of shaving cream to real hair on the head or imaginary hair on the face. You may use your own standards to judge the creativity and appeal of the contestants' efforts.

First place will be awarded to one contestant in each of the two groups presented, so please indicate your choice for each group. Campers may vote by dropping their ballots in the ballot box at breakfast. Online readers, please send your selections to contest@rosedale.edu.

Crossing Signs Coming!

Due to the number of campers who frantically run from TAP class in the library to Choose-A-Spot in the gym, large yellow Kangaroo Crossing signs will soon be placed on campus.

An unnamed source in the Choral Camp Offices had this to say, "We believe that the addition of these signs will help to cut down on the injuries to kangaroos." The only kangaroo known to be on campus, Kochel R. Kangaroo, was unavailable for comment at press time.

One of the camp nurses, Ethel Bontrager, remarked that she was getting tired of trying to get Band-Aids to stick on kangaroo fur. Alisha Byler, the other nurse said, "The hardest part of treating a kangaroo is the kicking hind feet."

Although Kochel is not known to have ever kicked anyone, either nurse or camper, Choral Camp is committed to protecting its kangaroos and will install kangaroo crossing signs in the near future.
