Q: "Why couldn't Mozart find his piano teacher?"

A: "He was Haydn!"

SuperGames A Real Soaker

The presence of water guns, sponges and barrels of water seemed too much to handle for several of the older male campers. SuperGames arrived on campus bringing with them the normal outfit of inflatables and water games. Several campers and their counselors thought the best way to celebrate the games would be to drench an unsuspecting reporter (who was innocently napping on the sidelines) with water. The reporter grabbed a water gun and held her own, however, and succeeded in soaking at least a few of the spirited mob.

With the exception of this single outrageous and reprehensible attack, SuperGames was once again an enormous success. —Drenched Debbie

Camper Makes Hairy Mistake

The Record has learned that during Tuesday's Choral Camp Cream, when Host P. R. Schrock got creamed along with everyone else, he noticed his head was getting a bit itchy. At first he thought he was getting pruritus like last week's host (see last Thursday's Record), so it wasn't until his wife, Sherry, excitedly woke him up in the early hours Wednesday morning that he realized he had hair. "We were so excited we couldn't go back to sleep," Sherry explained.

Investigators have discovered that earlier on Tuesday, Dawson Hooley's can of Rogaine disappeared. Hooley confessed he had been secretly applying the Rogaine to his bald head several times a day for several weeks. Apparently the can had fallen out of his pocket while he was setting up for the Cream. Somehow one of the campers mistook it for shaving cream and in a stroke of good fortune, P. R. was the lucky victim of a "cream attack" in which the Rogaine was applied to his head.

"I haven't had this much hair since grade school," P. R. exulted. "The bad part is the amount of dandruff that has occurred and the incessant itching. I'm beginning to wonder if hair is worth it.

Now I'm going to have to use shampoo." "I don't understand why it didn't work for me," grumbled Hooley, "I've been putting it on for weeks with no effect, and he just used it one time." —Kevin Mayer

Typical Choral Camper

The list of all the campers this week indicates that the most typical is a boy who has been to Choral Camp before, twelve years old (with a birthday in the middle of July) from Ohio. The Record found one camper like that—Trenton Troyer. Trenton is a typical yet very special choral camper. He has brown hair, brown eyes and plays guitar and recorder. This is his third year to make the 2 1/2 hour drive to camp from his home, and this year he packed his own clothes for camp . . . well most of them anyways. He has won the cleanest room award twice in his three years at camp.

The funny thing about being the typical camper is that there is only one of them, so in fact, he is unique. His name is very different from the other names floating around camp like Ryan, Caleb, or Joel. Trenton enjoys playing guitar and hopes that Choral camp will soon offer a guitar class. Some of his favorite activities are the soap slide and Super Games.

Since our typical camper is such a unique and special guy, the Record will grant his wish and let him say HI MOM!

Why Chris?

For nearly two weeks now, Chris Yoder has repeatedly been given recognition as having the cleanest counselor's room. This is deeply puzzling to the people who know Chris best, but several counselors believe they have finally solved this mystery.

According to Ryan Graber, the most obvious reason is that Chris is short of stature, thus requiring more of his clothes than of Ryan's clothes to make the same amount of mess. Secondly, Chris rooms alone, having no roommate to messify what he has cleaned.

An investigator for the Record has also uncovered a rumor that Chris is using campers to do his cleaning for him. We must stress that this is unconfirmed, though it agrees with our suspicions that Chris would hardly be doing all that cleaning by himself!

Finally the Record would like to forward to the nurses a suggestion by Jonathan Weber. "They ought to check his closet. It's probably full of wadded up, dirty clothes!"

ROOM INSPECTIONS

Best room on each hall:

Strauss – #6 (Jennifer Beller, Elizabeth Miller, Rachel Miller, Chaska Yoder) Very neat, and clean!

Mozart – #6 & #9 (Allison Gingerich, Jenna McDonald, Kristin Miller, Monica Schlabach, Michele Zook) Entire hall was clean.

Bach – #7 (Michael Gingerich, Peter Jon Showalter, Neil Yoder, Josiah Zimmerman) Best room in a much improved hall. The floor was even visible in Andy, Matt, and Ryan's room!

Beethoven – #4 (Matthew Martin, Seth Showalter, Lamar Weaver, Caleb Zimmerman) Honor, but not distinction, is restored to Beethoven Hall

Handel – #6 & #11 (Laura Byler, Ericka Byler, Melanie Byler, Ashley Kropf, Holly Reeves) Clean rooms, open Bibles, and frogs dancing to Psalm 33!? And what is up with all those Bylers?

Best Hall – Mozart Boys are still shut out of this category. Can this be fair?

Best Counselor Room – Destiny Gingerich, Sherri Mast Chris Yoder gets honorable mention again

Worst Counselor Room – Doug Root, Jared Kauffman, Nikolas Borisuk Campers, these guys have not yet figured out how to make the beds alleged to be under their stuff. Can you please show them?
