Camp Cream is Just Plane Fun

Choral Camp's Tuesday afternoon Cream may have attracted the attention of government officials. Soon after the cream began, a small plane flew over the canvas at low altitude—apparently a reconnaissance flight prompted by neighborhood reports about little people covered in a foaming white substance. Five subsequent flyovers were conducted before the plane cleared the area.

No comment was available from the pilot or the government. Coordinator Swartz did have something to say, however. "If this were the prison," she said confidently, "we'd be on instant lockdown."

Grandparents Ask for Divine Reconnaissance

It was a busy afternoon. Planes were flying and prayers were rising. While campers creamed one another, a team of seven senior Christians conducted a prayer tour including the dorms, campfire area, kitchen/dining room, nurses station, art room, reading room, classrooms, recreation fields, chapel and camp offices.

In addition, these wonderful intercessors will be praying for scores of individual requests submitted by campers from both weeks of camp this summer.

We couldn't be more delighted.

Intercessors Willard & Esther Mayer, Irene Diller, Cora & Levi Miller, Irene & Emory Helmuth — cream of the crop!

A1: "Because someone told him to 'git along little dogie!'" A2: "Because if they lifted both, they would fall over!"

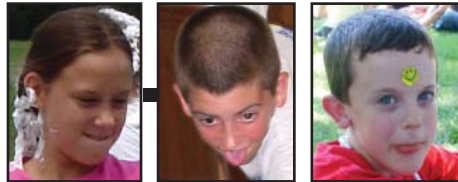

What is the good of getting a black eye at Choral Camp if you can't get your (only slightly modified) picture in the Record?

Q: "What did the Atlantic Ocean say to the Pacific Ocean?"

A: "Nothing. It just waved!"

Room Inspections

Best room on each hall:

Handel – #4 (Haley Sweigart, Erica Vandermeer, Nicole Wittmer)

Strauss – #9 (Joanna Fisher, Melody Fisher, Monica Schlabach, Stephanie Moore)

Bach – #7 (Joel Bender, Alex Myers, Nicholas McDonald, Jacob Borders)

Beethoven – #4 (Vincent Borders, Philip Byler, Kevin Kropf, Evan Shirey)

Mozart – #5 (Briana Byler, Chelsea Lehman, Caitlin Yoder)

Best Hall — Beethoven (Impressive neatness. Actually cleaner than the girls' halls!)

Honorable Mention

— Bach Hall (Nurses loved the Adoption Center: underwear, dirty socks and stray silverware lined up under the adoption sign in the hall)

— All Girls' Halls (Beautiful, creative decorations. Way to go!)

The Nightingale

Featuring the potential adventures of a Choral Camper named Dal Segno, though she goes by the name of Doll. She's such a sweetie!

This is Doll's third year of Choral Camp, so she felt pretty confident that it would be a good week. She hoped Kevin Yoder would notice how her soprano voice was maturing. Maybe he would even pick her to help sing the high parts in the Latin choir song, Laudamus Te. She knew she had the best voice for it, so she tried to sit where Mr. Yoder could hear her.

As happens so often at Choral Camp, trouble intruded when it was time to go to sleep the first night. All Monday afternoon, Doll had been looking forward to opening the care package her mother had sent. She had been a good girl and had not opened it before bedtime, but she knew it had a family photo, a note for each day, and some of her favorite cookies.

Imagine her panic when she couldn't find the package anywhere! She wondered if it was still in the van. Or worse, those rowdy boys in the van had moved everyone's stuff around so much her little box might have fallen out when they stopped for gas on the way. Worst of all, those mean boys might have found her box, and were laughing right then as they read her notes and ate her cookies.

She suddenly felt very lonely, and even cried a little as she drifted off into troubled sleep.

Orffing Class Makes the Grade

What is Orff? What does Orff stand for? Orff is the name of a man who loved music and children. Carl Orff lived from 1895 – 1982 and was instrumental (no pun intended) in bringing a lot of different musical sounds together. Some of the instruments he used were drums, xylophones, cymbals, metallophones, glockenspiels and recorders.

This year Choral Campers get to experience some of these instruments in Mrs. Wolfer's Accent class and practice making a variety of melodic sounds.

What do campers have to say? "Its pretty cool." And "Orffing is OK."

Doll's photo is not available at this time, but here is Matt Wolfer's portrait of Doll's cousin, Da Capo al Segno (aka Bob), featured last week.
