Vol. 9, No. 10

Did you know that you can go to college on the Choral Camp campus? You can even graduate, like Jason (and Jared) did. If you've learned to sing really well, you can tour with the Rosedale Chorale. Ask Ken Miller—he's the Chorale director.

Debbie says good-bye, Choral Campers!

Right now I'm listening to you sing. Your voices are loud and happy, your faces have smiles and sometimes you stop singing to laugh with a friend. I like hearing you sing.

Thank you for your enthusiasm and readiness to exalt God this week. We have had a wonderful week full of shaving cream, campfires, glowstick conducting and of course...SINGING! I've heard you sing in choir, in SPLASH!, on hayrides, in the bus to skating, at the hymn sing and even while you were covered with shaving cream!

Thank you for your exaltation of God, I will miss you and your enthusiastic praise. I hope to see you next year at Choral Camp!

GREAT BALLS OF FIRE! JUGGLERS AT CHORAL CAMP!

By Daniel Ziegler

ROSEDALE, Ohio — Juggling is something most people only get to see at the circus, tucked in between the bearded lady and the world's tallest man.

But this week we are especially fortunate to have a number of jugglers, with varying levels of skill, here with us.

Two of those jugglers, LaMar Yoder and Jared Yoder, have related juggling stories.

Back in January, when LaMar (who, as far as we know, is not related to Jared) was touring with the Rosedale Bible College Drama Team, he performed a juggling intermission at Jared's church. When Jared, who claims to have no criminal record, saw LaMar juggling, he knew he had found his passion.

"I learned how to juggle because I saw LaMar juggle seven months ago and he just inspired me, that's why," said the ebullient Jared. "I learned how to juggle from YouTube, then the instructional video by Jason Garfield."

Jason Garfield also happens to be the person from whom LaMar learned many of his juggling tricks, like the ever popular and dangerous "Knives of Flame" routine, in which LaMar juggles knives that are not on fire, or the "Great Balls of Fire" routine, which involves fiery torches and no insignificant amount of danger.

So far, Jared has stayed away from fiery torches, which is probably a good idea.

When asked what he can juggle, he replied, "Rings, balls, clubs, and knives. I've never tried flaming torches, but I figure I'd be pretty good at them."

Despite Jared's confidence, his family is probably glad that he hasn't started juggling fire yet, since they most likely enjoy having their house not on fire.
