Choral Camp — it's more than Super Games

(Below) Deborah Showalter demonstrates a different approach to doing laundry for her campers. It hasn't caught on yet...

We love our Super Games and our Get Wet and our (sniff!) rained-out Camp Cream, but we do a lot more than that at camp. Here are just a few pictures to give you a glimpse of what campers get to do while they're here.

CLAP classes (see note on page two) meet six times during the week. Campers can work on strings (top left and below), practice brass (top right), or focus on other instruments, such as clarinet and recorder.

Campers also attend culture class, (bottom left), where they've been learning about Haiti and Dagestan all week, and work on crafts (bottom right) during quiet moments. You might find campers curled up in a chair with a good book, or perfecting their stilt-walking or rollerblading skills. And let's not forget chapel and campfire, hall parties and Choral Camp Café.

(Below) It's nice to have a moment to work quietly on something that's not covered with shaving cream, screaming or moving really fast.

Dueling Gahjees!

In spite of our best efforts, Internet Gahjee (pictured at right) found out about Hands-On Gahjee (shown at left). Now they both want to know, who's the toughest Dagestani ram around: the steely-eyed dude on the right, or the soft, cuddly little guy on the left? Cast your vote with Vicki by 2 pm today.

CAMPER CONTESTS! TAKE YOUR PICK!

First contest: CLAP Class — What does it mean?

Nobody likes to admit it, but Music Director Ken Miller is, you know, getting up there. Perhaps that's why he can't remember what the acronym CLAP stands for. (The Record has it on good authority that he said as much in public.) So let's help him out, campers. Who can think up the best meaning behind the letters? Hand in your answers to Vicki by 2 pm today. Winners get their name in Friday's Record.

What is a ... ?

By Caleb Zimmeran

What is a hypermeasure?

Real, somewhat complicated, definition: Grouping of measures in which each measure itself serves as a beat of a larger measure.

"A measure with plenty of fast notes."
~ Hannah Zimmerman

"You're hyper." ~ Benjamin Barkdoll

"Some sort of scale." ~ Ira Miller

"It's how hyper you are." ~ Joshua Hershberger

"What he said." ~ Evan Mayer

"It's like the same measures back to back." ~ Isaac Moore

Second contest: Write the best caption for this photo —

WEDNESDAY ROOM AWARDS Best room awards go to:

Bach: Room 2

David Swartzentruber, Dwight Byler,
Micah Bender, Daniel Byler

Beethoven: Room 9

Jason Martin, Jared Yoder, Isaac
Moore, Jonah Hartsburg

Handel: Room 5

Bethany Zerkle, Anna Zerkle,
Chantel Smithers

Mozart: Room 9

Anna Yoder, Rachel Brobst, Mikaila
Tice, Sara Byler

Strauss: Room 3

Morgan Maust, Anita Maust,
Ericka Byler, Melanie Byler

Reverse Bribe Report: Nurse Holly handed out many reverse bribes for clean rooms, "definitely more [to] girls than guys, though." Editor's challenge: Guys, are you going to let that stand?

Third contest:

What's your favorite part of Choral Camp
and why?

Turn your answers in to Vicki by 2 pm today. She's the one with white hair who isn't Regina Yutzy-Wolfer.

OVERHEARD!

Overheard one evening, outdoors:
"I was legally dead for 8 days!"

Conversation between counselor Caleb Zimmerman and camper Danny Peterson ~

Danny: "I hate chocolate."

Caleb: "Chocolate's not a bad thing!"

Danny: "Yes, it is!"

Caleb: "You should get over hating it."

Danny: "You should get over not hating it!"
