

Today's Forecast

High-88°F
Low-67°F

Chance of T-storms
50% chance of precipitation

THE ROSEDALE RECORD

Reporting Choral Camp news since 2000

July 16, 2010

www.rosedale.edu

Vol. 11, No. 10

Did you know that you can go to college on the Choral Camp campus? You can even graduate, like Jason (and Jared) did. If you've learned to sing really well, you can tour with the Rosedale Chorale. Ask Ken Miller—he's the Chorale director.

Debbie says goodbye

Right now I'm listening to you sing. Your voices are loud and happy, your faces have smiles and sometimes you stop singing to laugh with a friend. I like hearing you sing.

Thank you for your enthusiasm and readiness to exalt God this week. We have had a wonderful week full of shaving cream, campfires, dunk tanks and of course... SINGING! I've heard you sing in choir, in class, on hayrides, at the carnival, at the hymn sing and even while you were covered with shaving cream!

Thank you for your exaltation of God. I will miss you and your enthusiastic praise. I hope to see you next year at Choral Camp!

Choral Camp coordinator Debbie Hochstedler, missing you already.

Traumatized Andrew Miller hides from ram-paging campers. Miller says he might seek financial compensation for his suffering.

Bystander shocked by treatment at hands of Choral Campers

By Andrew Sharp, Johnny-On-The-Spot Record Reporter

While most campers were having a great time bouncing, climbing, and running their way through the Super Games on Thursday, one innocent victim was left in fear after one of the water games got out of hand.

A group of hyper campers with loaded water-blasters broke away from a game that was supposed to involve shooting cups and attacked bystander Andrew Miller, who was innocently trimming bushes in the flowerbeds.

"I was just minding my own business and blocking out the world with some music," Miller said, still visibly shaken long after the attack. "I looked up to see half a dozen loaded barrels staring in my face." While he was trying to decide what to do, the campers unloaded on him, soaking him with cold water.

Did he do anything to provoke the attack? "Nothing whatsoever," Miller said, "Unless they really liked those bushes."

At press time Miller seemed likely to recover, although he is suffering from some Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder. He says he will probably seek financial compensation.

Rebuttal on that Hugs thing Submitted by the kitchen staff

We cooks admit that we freely gave you one Hug each at lunch yesterday. We were following the laws of Have U Got Service. Code 46-925-A, paragraph 4, states no camper or staff member shall get more than one Hug at a lunch. Code 4-6291-Q, paragraph 54 states if campers and staff are nice to kitchen staff, they shall receive one additional Hug after a hymn sing.

In addition, code 1, paragraph 1 states that kitchen staff may have all the Hugs they want daily.

What really happens in the dorms?

By Andrew Sharp, Record Muckraker

By day, campers are busy having a great time and learning about music. At night, they disappear into their dorms where we are led to believe that they get ready for bed and have a nice long night's sleep. But what really goes on in those hidden hallways? Our investigative reporters went behind the scenes to find out, and what they learned will shock you.

First, the boys' halls. Hall leader Gabriel Borisuk revealed that many of the campers are partying late into the night, guzzling cream soda and eating as many animal crackers as they stuff down. "It's out of hand, really," he said. To help some of the younger campers recover from their late nights, they are allowed to get up late and browse at a coffee bar before heading to breakfast ("To make sure they are alert for the day," Gabriel said).

Another shocking revelation was that counselor Eric Yoder took all the candy he could find in the boys' dorm and fled to Canada, where he is currently in hiding. Because of his popularity, most of the boys would not talk to the Record about the story, but one source who asked to remain anonymous confirmed the rumors. Camp pastor Preston Yoder said he was "deeply saddened" to hear about this crime.

There is strange news from the girls' dorm as well. Hannah Zimmerman admitted that some of the girls haven't been hungry at meals because they purchased goldfish and have been having late night fish fries. "They aren't very big, but they are delicious," Rebecca Diller said. "We only have one left."

Caught red-handed – or green-handed, depending on how you look at it.

Another piece of news the girls have been trying to keep secret is the pending release of their new CD, "Bedtime Melodies." It turns out they practice what they have learned at camp as they get ready for bed, warbling in beautiful four-part harmony. "It's top notch," Rebecca said. "We're trying to keep it a secret until it comes out, so don't tell anyone."

Conservative Mennonite Conference

welcomes Choral Campers to Annual Conference 2010

Children's Choir
Theme: Exploring 100 Years of God's Faithfulness
Around the World
Fun Activities

July 29-August 1
Cedarville University
Cedarville, Ohio

Register at:
www.cmcrosedale.org