Slightly skewed Choral Camp T-shirts

Über-chic, hyper-hip designer rejected by Choral Camp

ROSEDALE, Ohio-- Matt Wolfer, South Carolina's premiere graphic designer, was overcome by dismay when Choral Camp informed him that they couldn't use his T-shirt designs.

"Really?" he said. "Seriously? You don't like my work? How can you say no to my beautiful designs?"

"It's not that we don't like his work," explained Jared Stutzman, camp diplomat. "We love his work! I tried to explain the situation to him, but he didn't seem to get the concept. You know, the whole C-H-O-R-A-L thing."

"Oh, now he's talking to me about concepts," sputtered an indignant Wolfer upon hearing Stutzman's comments. "I was BORN to do high concepts! I cannot be hemmed in by petty little things like spelling. So I say goodbye to you, Cruel Camp."

Debbie says hello, campers!

Dear Choral Campers,

As I walked to my office this morning, the yard was still and quiet, the hand chimes in the library were silent on their cushions, and the barrels labeled "Shaving Cream" were empty. Now, as I walk across the yard, footballs and Frisbees are flying, recorders are playing, and the shaving cream is ready for tomorrow. I'm glad you're here – and bringing life and energy and joy to camp!

Mystery of the signs! (can you solve it?)

Check out the beautiful new signs on campus and see if you can figure out the mystery song! If you think you know it, see Melanie Graber. You'll be very happy you did! Hint: We are very blessed to have this song in the hymnal. And thank you, Grabers, for our beautiful signs!

Kajan sings along

On Monday this year's mascot, Kajan, left his usual hangout spot on the front desk when he heard the faint mumblings of a choir coming from the library. He came swinging in through the doors and was overwhelmed by the cries of joy and psalms of praise that were being belted out by the campers. He told reporters, "Oooh oooh, aah aah!" which means, "I have never heard such talented young men and women. It's only the first day and they're already singing the songs with such skill. I can't wait to hear what they sound like at the end of the week!" Kajan swung away joyfully, looking forward to experiencing more of this Choral Camp's musical talent. (Reporting by Melanie Graber)
