Three very Seussical friends come to Choral Camp But will they play all day? Will they, will they, if they can?

ROSEDALE, Ohio -- Three veteran Choral Campers showed up this week wearing T-shirts that identified them as Thing One, Thing Two and Thing Three.

Sensing a story, The Record interviewed them, only to discover that these brave campers have been on a journey of self-discovery ever since they were born.

The plucky young women are Charity Moser (Thing 1), Katie Ludwick (Thing 2), and Karina Yoder (Thing 3).

"We've known each other since birth," said Karina. "I'm two hours older than Charity."

"Our moms were cousins," added Charity. This might explain the uncanny resemblance the two babies shared not only with each other, but also with the Dr. Seuss characters (see photo at right).

"Yeah, we think it's genetic," said Karina.

But that doesn't explain Katie's Thing Two-ness. She's not related to Charity and Karina at all.

In fact, she didn't even know them until she met Karina at a Bible camp six years ago.

"I felt sorry for her," said Karina. "She didn't have any friends."

When asked if that was because she had blue hair and only dressed in funny red pajamas, Katie could only hang her head and say, "Yes."

Obviously, none of the girls look like that now. What's behind this change in appearance?

They explained that at first, they enjoyed looking "all Seussy."

"We got a lot of attention!" said Karina.

"We felt like magnets — camera magnets," added Katie. (Continued on p. 2)

Bethany says hello, campers!

Hello, Campers!

It is wonderful to have you all here. The Rosedale campus felt lonely and a bit desolate this weekend without any campers here. The energy, creativity, and personality that you all bring are what make Choral Camp exciting. I look forward to seeing you throw yourselves into all of the activities, games, classes, and events that you will experience this week. Remember to make this week a "jubilant song" to the Lord!

But eventually, the glow of fame faded. The three friends grew weary of being in the limelight and decided to change their appearance and assume "secret identities."

They dyed their hair and changed out of their cute little red PJs.

Katie explained, "We're hiding our real selves, because they're so crazy."

Karina agreed: "We are really weird, actually."
