Glove hair! Secrets of La Dama in the lobby

Reporting by Anna Yoder

Many campers have commented on the lovely locks of the lady in the lobby. They want to know: How does she do it? How does she manage to keep her hair impeccably styled, day in and day out, amidst the hustle and bustle of campers dancing to the tune of “Tideo, Tideo!” (sounds like tidy-oh)?

Anna Yoder, intrepid Record reporter, decided to ask La Dama herself. It was a difficult interview because La Dama was having trouble opening her mouth. Still, Anna got on a wave length with her. Here is what she found out:

La Dama loves her glove hair. In fact, she only sees two disadvantages: “It gets really hot in the summer, and when it’s windy, your glove hair might blow off. Then you’re bald.”

On the other hand (heh-heh-heh), glove hair never gets frizzy or greasy, and dandruff is not a problem. If something does happen to make your hair dirty, you can toss it in the washing machine.

Also, you can buy new glove hair at Wal-Mart or Dollar Tree, in all the bright colors you want. You never need a comb, and, if you’re tired of how your glove hair looks, you can tie it in knots!

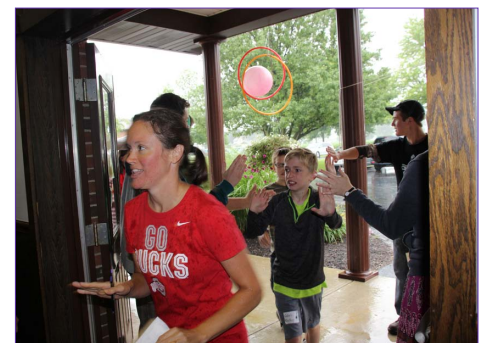

Overheard!

Overheard in Music History Class
(Expert vs. Amateur):

Jared: “What happens if you go on American Idol and you’re a bad singer?”

Matthew Macerol: “You win.”

Clammy: “I heard a camper say ‘clamouflage.’ I’m pretty sure the camper meant ‘camouflage,’ but personally, I like ‘clamouflage’ better!”

Tuesday Room Awards
