Paco and Wallace, reunited at last!

Who knew that Choral Camp would bring together two long-lost relatives?

The reunion of Choral Camp mascot Paco with Wallace Pugwalter brought tears to the eyes of all who witnessed it. At first glance, they don't look like they have much in common, other than their height and insane cuteness.

After all, Paco is a Mexican Chihuahua with a somewhat somber bent (have you ever seen him so much as dance?). Wallace, on the other hand, almost never stops moving. Add to that his strong Boston accent (he's part Boston terrier) and his pugnacious attitude (he's part pug, too, in addition to being part Chihuahua), and you have a spunky little fellow.

He's so spunky, in fact, that when he found out he had a missing relative who was a Chihuahua in the González line, he didn't stop digging until he unearthed Paco. Then he grabbed him and shook him like a little rat, because that's what terriers do (they dig for rats and shake them like crazy). Fortunately, Wallace's human, Bennett, intervened in time to save Paco.

Once Paco caught his breath, the two eyed each other warily on the Choral Camp lawn (see above). Then they greeted each other warmly and went off to share a bowl of water, but the Record, in a rare moment of sensitivity to privacy, chose not to take those pictures. (See the photos below to follow the connection between Paco and Wallace. It will be completely clear to you. Really. Just stay with it.)

Wallace's paternal grandparents, Rosita González on the left and Marvin Pugwalter on the right. Marvin is the son of Sebastián and Carmen (photos unavailable), who are the great-grandparents of both Paco and Wallace. Rosita and Marvin had a son, Daniel, who married Ruthie Bonterrier.

The Record uncovered a wedding photo of Wallace's parents, Ruthie Bonterrier and Daniel Pugwalter (above). They are the ones who told little Wallace about his long lost relative, Paco. You'll notice that Wallace's dad, Daniel, takes after his mother's side of the family, while Wallace himself resembles his mother.

Wallace insisted that we include this picture of another long-lost relative. He comes down the González line, but adopted the moniker Long John Beachy, perhaps to spare his family embarrassment. Wallace hopes to locate his pirate cousin (thrice removed?) next. If you know of his whereabouts, please contact us.

Tuesday Room Awards

GROOMING LIKE THE JUNGLE JAM ANIMALS!

Nurses rate each hall on a scale of 1 (awful!) to 10 (awesome!), based on overall appearance.

Daniel Barkdoll, Isaac Graber, Elisha Moore, Jude Reed

Best of Bach: Room 4

Cameron Nisly, Christopher Yoder, Dawson Yoder

Handel's Messiah: Room 11

Mary Peterson, Rachel Schulte, Keely Stiles, Deborah Zerkle

Mozart's Eine Kleine Nachtmusik: Room 3

Elise Coble, Elizabeth Martin, Victoria Pagan, Damara Steiner, Ashanti Tucker

Strauss's Blue Danube Waltz: Room 3

Madison Chapman, Leah Hardy, Katie Krueger

Record photographer Esther Beitzel reports that the campfire Jungle Jam theme seems to be catching on in other camp activities. She took pictures of campers clustering together, grooming each other's hair during Choral Camp Cream, not unlike chimpanzees. Well, chimpanzees don't do the whole shaving cream fight thing, but you get it. And besides, they would if they could. It's just hard to get shaving cream in the jungle.
