C horal C ampers have narrow escape

ROSEDALE, Ohio--Three campers had a brush with hot, smoky, real-life drama on Sunday, July 16, when their trusty old van went up in flames.

"We were just leaving church," said Isaac Schulte. "All the warning lights on the dashboard turned on at the same time."

Isaac and his siblings, Rachel and Joe, had traveled a thousand miles from South Dakota (with their mom, Liz) to come to Choral Camp. They were visiting their former church in Dublin when the event occurred.

"At first, nothing happened," said Isaac. "But then we started smelling this awful smell, like gas--like some kind of evil, poisonous gas!"

Everyone was coughing, he said. "They were all afraid, except me. I don't really scare that easy."

But even he felt nervous when smoke started pouring out of the hood of the van. His mother stopped the car and they all jumped out--just in time.

"We had to run like crazy," said Isaac. "We barely made it before the whole thing just blew up!"

Isaac thinks they should have a burial service for the family vehicle. "It's like, 115 years old, and it finally exploded." His mother is just glad it decided to fall apart after they got to Ohio.

Hey, at least I got them all the way to Ohio.

Ready, set, go!

A message to campers from Collette

Hello, Choral Campers! It is that time of year again when we are excited to welcome you to Choral Camp.

Are you READY for this? There are a lot of fun events in store for you this week; I hope you brought your energy and sense of adventure. GET SET for a great week of music, fun and God's work in your heart.

As we've been getting camp set up, we've realized there are so many pieces that go into putting it together—but the most important piece is you! GO into it with all your heart. Be positive, make friends, and have fun! We're going to have a great week together.
