CAMPERS, HOW DOES OLD DAN TUCKER FEEL?

One day this week, campers were practicing the folk song "Old Dan Tucker." You might recall that Dan has some unusual grooming habits: he washes his face in a frying pan and combs his hair with a wagon wheel.

Not only that, he rides into town on a billy goat, leading a hound, a really bad safety combination. When the hound dog barks, the billy goat jumps, and poor Old Dan lands on a stump.

You'd think that would be enough. But no. Dan arrives late for supper, and stands there "a-lookin'."

As it turns out, the campers were practicing this song just before supper, and a few of them were obviously getting pretty hungry. Music director Ken Miller turned it into a teaching moment. "You know how you get a little crabby when you're hungry and you can't eat when you want to?"

They knew.

"Well, just think about Dan Tucker," said Ken, Master of Empathy. "How did he feel?"

The Record liked that question, so we surveyed campers to see what they thought.

Noelia Wanty, 10, said Dan must be mad, "because he can't eat his supper and everyone hates him."

Eleya Beachy, 9 and a half, said, "He's probably depressed. Everyone's always running away from him."

Patrick Shenk, 11, believes Dan feels "really unhappy. . . he's kind of peeved because he's missed supper and all that's left is squash." Asked if he liked squash, Patrick was pretty emphatic. "No, I don't like squash."

Sam Stoltzfus, 11, added, "I think Dan Tucker may feel a little bit rejected or sad because he just missed his supper and he's hungry. Now he has to wait for breakfast, and it probably isn't that good."

Missed supper seems to be a theme.

And not just supper. Nathan Pardy, 12, added a twist. "He's angry and annoyed because he hasn't had food in a while. Maybe he missed his lunch!"

Good one-word answers to the question about how Dan Tucker felt came from Nakeah Kauffman, 10 ("Exhausted!") and Mayah Kauffman, 9 ("Disappointed!").

Evan Hochstedler, 12, thought Dan felt "sad and grumpy," and Alex Bauermeister, 11, said, "He's having a really bad day."

But Alex had a solution for Dan: "He needs to come to Choral Camp and get supper!"

Jared didn't think they could do it!
