

SPITZ THE CAMEL TRAVELS FAR AND WIDE

By Alyssa Rapp

Our dearly beloved Spitz the camel has wandered such a treacherous and long journey to come visit us this week at Choral Camp. He has been spotted exploring on multiple occasions through the sands of Rosedale. He was first found on his pit stop at the ping pong table to give his long legs a rest from all the traveling. Did you know camels can get up to 11 feet tall? So, our friend Spitz has to take a break to rest his long legs to keep exploring.

Next, our friendly camel traversed over to visit Strauss hall. Upon arrival he found that it was not the type of seasons he was used to at home, especially the winter season. It was so cold he had to throw a warm scarf on to help protect his neck from being frost bitten. However, I am happy to say that our dear mascot, Spitz, came through and better than ever too. His fur was feeling refreshed and hydrated from the winter elements to keep going.

Spitz ventured over to culture class next, and decided to take in all the fun artifacts of his home country. He has traveled a far journey and felt most at home here amongst the sand, ancient ruins of the past, and colorful hanging tapestries.

Finally, our faithful friend makes one last stop before going back to his home. He heads to the gym, where there is all sorts of games being played by the kids. Spitz loves it here because he gets to see all the campers having fun and hopefully being kind to one another. But watch out because Spitz can spit, and did you know that when camels are angry they will spit to distract whatever they think is a threat? So, if Spitz sees any unruly behavior amongst the campers, he may just have to spit because he does not tolerate any tom foolery.
