Program Director Megan in custody!

Yesterday, a group of strange visitors appeared on our beautiful Choral Camp campus. They had traveled far, and were weary from their journey; yet, when the cooks offered them food and water, they politely declined.

“We are the Order of the Forks. We have come to deliver an urgent message!” Exclaimed the group’s leader, who introduced himself as the Master of the Forks. “We must make haste, before it is too late!”

Silence fell over the cafeteria as the Master led his comrades in a solemn but rousing chorus of their anthem song. After this, the Master issued a passionate and compelling plea to the campers: be kind to his brothers, the forks, and his sisters, the spoons. “If I hear that any one of you throws away your fork or your spoon, I will be very angry!” Bellowed the Master.

The Order declined the invitation to stay for the shaving cream fight, and gathered their things to leave. As they made their way out, something caught the Master’s eye. With growing horror, he stared down into the trash can to see none other than - a spoon! His eyes widened in shock. Who could have done this villainous deed? With a howl of rage, he scooped up the spoon and turned to his comrades. “Someone has betrayed us!”

Record reporters sat down with the Master to get the inside scoop. “I am very frustrated and angry,” sighed the Master, rubbing his forehead. “And right after our appeal to keep this very thing from happening! Justice must be served for sister spoon.” We asked him if he has anything he would like to say to the mystery spoon tosser. “Whoever did it must go on a journey to the Fork Kingdom across the sea, and apologize to King Forkticious!”

But the ultimate question remains: who could have done such a terrible thing? Thankfully, Record reporters were able to do a DNA test on the spoon. They waited anxiously until the results were in, and then peered down at them. As their eyes fell on the name of the culprit, gasps and cries filled the room. It could not be! It couldn’t! But it was. The name Megan McGaffey stared back at them in bold letters.

Megan, Choral Camp’s fearless program director, has been charged with a heinous crime: throwing away a sister spoon. While we hope that this is a mistake, we have to admit that it does not look good for Megan. Record reporters have scheduled an interview with her, and will publish the results of this at a later time. Can we trust Megan? At this point, we don’t know. For now, we wait.
