And the Plot Thickens

Strauss Hall is now harboring not one, not two, but potentially three threats to the continuation of camp. After reading the article published by the Record yesterday, Blue counselor Ana Borntager approached Esther Moore suggesting something completely unexpected: an alliance. Witnesses saw Ana meet Esther in the Girls Lounge carrying what appeared to be a plastic bag full of water guns. At this meeting, it is believed they agreed to join forces to take over the camp. Neither one of them was willing to share any details on the meeting, but they have both been seen stockpiling bubble solution and cups of water.

Many wonder if Strauss Hall Leader Kalvary Freed is also involved in Ana and Esther's nefarious plans. With a hall theme of rubber ducks, it is possible the bubbles on the wall are hiding a darker side to our beloved camp.

When confronted about the subject, Kalvary exclaimed, "I chose the theme because of my rubber duck collection, no other reason!" However, as she made this statement her eyes darted around nervously, as if hiding something more. She then quickly changed the subject.

Although nothing has happened since the incident with Liz, there are indubitably questions still at large. Will this tension bubble over? Or will Esther, Ana, and Kalvary's sudsy plans be doused? Campers and staff alike will have to be sure to be on the lookout for any stray bubbles and report any suspicious activity they see.
