Passing the Baton

In a relay, a team of runners work together to win the race. The first runner carries a smooth bar about 12 inches long called a baton. Right before the runner hands the baton to the next team member, the teammates run in step at the same pace so there is a smooth transition. The last two years of camp have been like that point in a relay race. I have been working in step with Kirk so he can smoothly hand off the director baton to me.

Once the first runner has passed the baton, they can stop running; but the race isn't over. The runner who now has the baton keeps running to keep their team moving forward. Next summer, Kirk will be done his leg of the race as director; but camp isn't over. I look forward to carrying the director baton for the next leg of the race.

The whole Choral Camp team has loved the time with you campers this week and I am already looking forward to seeing you back next summer. As you pack up and head home, remember that the steadfast love of God is always with you. God's love is dependable and sturdy -like a brand new camping chair!

On your way out this afternoon give Kirk a high five and tell him thanks for the great baton carrying / camp directing he has done the last 6 years!

Answer: Because they always went around saying,
"Bach, Bach, Bach!"

Did you know that you can go to college on the Choral Camp campus? You can even graduate, like Kraig plans to do! If you've learned to sing really well, you can tour with the Rosedale Chorale. Ask Ken Miller - he's the Chorale director.
