The Frog-Napping

Reports of a frog-napping have left Choral Camp in an uproar. In a recent dinner-time briefing, Detective Jace Weber acknowledged, "We can confirm a frog has been napped, but we have yet to establish a motive." When asked, "Do you have any suspects?" the Choral Camp cooks cried out from the kitchen, "It wasn't us!"

Detective Jace nodded. "I understand."

Just then, a camper going through the food line cried out, "What's this???" He held up a corn dog that looked suspiciously like a frog-leg-dog, and chaos erupted. "It was the cooks!" cried a girl camper.

"They must have napped the frog!" shouted a boy camper.

"Stop the frog-nappers!" cried CREW. The campers put down their forks. Protest signs were made: "NO MORE FROGNAPPING!" "FROGS DESERVE NAPS NOT NAPPINGS!" "WE WON'T EAT UNTIL FROGS STOP CROAKING!"

Marches, chants, and intense croaking sounds filled the room. Nurse Sara pushed her way through the crowd to assist a camper who passed out from the stress of the situation.

"Search the kitchen!" ordered Detective Jace, grabbing the mic back from Keith Byler, who had begun leading a mournful country song titled, "I Lost My Legs."

The CREW turned the kitchen upside-down, but not a single frog leapt out of it. "We couldn't even find frog guts anywhere," said dissapointed crew leader Kraig Lehman.

"I cook many delicious menu items," said Ellen Byler, Head Cook, "but I assure you, frog has never been on any camp menu of mine!"

"Then how did the corn-dog-frog-legs get in the food line?" asked Detective Jace.

Ellen sighed and said, "Well ... just look who's serving." "Ohhh!" the entire camp gasped at once. All eyes turned toward the CREW.
